Customs broker exam study guide pdf

If you want to pass the examination of a customs broker, you need to know how to study. This exam is one of the toughest professional tests in the United States. I'm not just trying to scare you. The customs broker exam pass rate pass rate for cbp broker exam is between 3% and 20%. I read an interesting take on this comparison customs broker exam on some of the more well known professional exams. You can read it here. I'm updated with a relatively recently published pass rate to help put it all in perspective. Customs broker exam: less than 20% There are several ways we can look at it. People who do a bar exam or medical examination are some of the smartest people in the country. Does it have a higher success account? I don't think so. I think it's about training in person. Doctors and lawyers spend 4 years in undergraduate school and another 3-5 years in postgraduate studies. In addition to years of schooling, there are a plethora of study guides for exams. How to become a broker to become a customs broker requires much less schooling and training. To start working in the industry does not require any formal education. If you work under a licensed customs broker (LCB), you don't even need a license. To obtain the license of your broker, you must be at least 21 years old, an American citizen, of good moral character, and get 75% or better to test the broker. This brings us back to the question, why is checking a customs broker's license so difficult? The answer is that people are not properly prepared for the exam. Most of us, when the LCB test have not been in school for many, many years. We're not used to running tests anymore. And this test isn't one you can get stuffed on. You should follow a good study guide of a customs broker. How to study for a customs broker exam The secret of passing the test is to properly prepare for it. In order to have a real chance to pass the exam, you need to know how to study. You can't remember the material. In fact, trying to memorize an answer or an answer based on your experience will hurt. The simple truth when passing the exam is that you need to answer questions based on how the definitions appear in the Code of Federal Regulations, HTSUS, and the Directive. The key is to find answers quickly. To do this, you need to practice with test materials. There are 80 exam questions and you have 4.5 hours to complete it. This leaves about 3 minutes to question. Between regs and tariff books you will have over 2000 pages of information. You need to be able to find your answers on all these sites very quickly. You can use indexes and page tabs to find the sections where the information is located.
